JOHN MARSHALL

Dear Kathy,
You have to be the dumbest girl I know. However I guess I'll have to keep up with you at Poker games. I am sure that I'll see you at Lonnies house this summer!
Love Paul

it seems strange that in another week high school will only be a part of our memory's history. I hope you've had as good a time as I have during these odd years - have a peaceful, contented life and an extremely successful career in whatever you do.
diane Slamowitz

Kathy,
I don't know much about you except that I remember you from Pinecrest Park when I was about nine years old. You were cute then too. Anyway good luck in the future & in whatever you do + maybe I'll see ya around.
Love
Dave Babcock

Katherine,
I don't know you well enough to say anything but that your personality sparkles among the morbid quiet of others in the class. Don't change that quality. Your individualism makes you stand out in a class of conformity. We need more honest people! Sorry for writing such dumb rhetoric, but I dislike writing love and kisses and success to everyone.
Peace,
Mark Krueger

Kathy,
The last three years of English have really been strange with Swain, Bielenberg, Barkan, + of course Mr. Berman. Math classes have been unusual too. Homecoming Stars Shine In Victory

Although Friday the thirteenth usually means bad luck, Friday, October 13, was the beginning of Marshall's homecoming, and high spirits plus good luck were abundant.

Homecoming weekend started with a pep rally. The cheerleaders and the band started the rally moving toward the time for the football team to enter, when Co-captains Bill Gardiner and Ed Roessl assured the audience of a complete victory over North. The climax of the pep rally was the introduction of the Homecoming Court. The Court was made up of Bonnie Moresco and Chuck Cording, Mikki Keller and Paul Hart, Cathy Miller and David Leske, Debi Geis and Dave Miller, Jeannie LaVesser and Paul Seiser, Jeannie Curran and Bob Peplinski, Marie Zanoni and Dennis Downs. Mr. Hackett announced that Bonnie Moresco, escorted by Chuck Cording, would be Homecoming Queen. Bonnie and her court reigned over the weekend festivities.

Early Saturday morning final adjustments to class floats and decorated cars began. When the floats and cars were in position, a committee, chosen by Miss Dorothy Smith, judged them, and the results were announced during halftime of the game. The winning float was the junior class float, "Bar-B-Q the Blue Devils", and the best car was entered by the swim team.

2400 Marshall spectators jammed the Custer field bleachers and yelled with delight as the Eagles ran the score up to 14-0 by halftime. During halftime the band performed, and along with the drill team formed the traditional Marshall "M". At the conclusion of the halftime ceremonies the football team came back and trounced North; final score Marshall — 21; North — 0.

The theme of the Homecoming dance was "Love Under The Stars", and the mood was set by "Sardonicus", who provided music ranging from polka to rock.

Advanced Biology Goes Back To Nature

"New beauty treatment — mud pack," said Paul Reamer philosophically as he pulled himself out of the waist-high mud of Shoe Lake.

On a cold and rainy Friday in October at 8:00 A.M., the 46 students hopped into a Joy Farm bus and set out on their first trip. Mr. Lachenmann led the tour of Whitnall Park, pointing out various types of trees, bushes, and flowers. The class spent about two hours gathering samples of flora and fauna and tidbits of information, then left for the zoo.

Another field trip was taken to Shoe Lake in the Kettle Morraine area. The students were allowed to use Mr. Lachenmann's instruments to make their own observations. Many also took the scenic walk around the lake itself, and even though armed with boots and in some cases hip waders, discovered that the lake was slowly turning into a bog. Those trips were both informative and fun, and all involved agreed that Advanced Biology was a worthwhile subject.

We Drive For Excellence

"John Marshall's Driver Education course has been considered one of the best in the state", Mr. James Fallon and Mr. Joseph Tarantino, the course's instructors, contend. We are the only school in the state besides Custer with a five phase course consisting of classroom, range, behind-the-wheel, simulator, and television.

Students are required to be at least 15 years and 6 months old to start the course, then have to pass the state exam to proceed with it. Marshall's rate of failure is 2.6% while the state average is 10%.

More than 30 teachers help by taking the students out on the range after school. The range is situated on the upper and lower playgrounds and there the students safely learn the general feel of driving.

Your Vote Counts

Everyone knows about the constitution! How about the fifteenth amendment? It was proclaimed on March 30, 1870 and states that the federal and state government cannot bar a citizen from voting because of his age or the fact that he had been a slave. The new twenty-sixth amendment sets the voting age at 18, instead of the previous age of 21.

This past election was the first time youths of 18 could vote, yet a large percentage of those who could vote did not. Perhaps the reason was that they didn't like either of the two choices and rather than vote just for the sake of voting, declined to vote this first time. It is hoped they will cast a vote in the future.

Angels In Prison Stripes

When was the last time you heard of an angel wearing prison stripes? If you're a Marshall student, it was probably at the three-act production of the comedy "My Three Angels," presented at Marshall on the nights of November 10 and 11.

The play, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Bielenberg, has its setting in French Guinea. It deals with a French family, the Ducotels, who own a store with financial problems. Three escaped convicts, Joseph (Jerry Lerner), Jules (Gary Smith), and Alfred (Dave Maiman) pose as workmen to repair the roof of the store. The convicts soon become involved with the Ducotels and try to help them with their problems of finance.

Adding a musical touch to the evening was the All-Star Calypso Band (French Guinea's Number 1 sound). The members of the band, clad in bright red sashes and tall hats, performed before the start of the play and during the intermission. The band personnel consisted of the Marshall Senior Band and Jazz Ensemble.

"This play was one of Marshall's finest productions," commented Jerry Lerner (Joseph). "Although I'm biased, I think the audience enjoyed it as much as we enjoyed acting in it." "It's the best play I've ever seen in all my years here," remarked one senior.

Jailbreak — 3:28

Suddenly, the halls of Marshall are filled with 3500 students inching their way up the down staircase and running toward their lockers in our swollen hallways. Why all the commotion? It's 3:30, one more day of school can be crossed off the calendar, and everyone takes advantage of this remaining time before the start of a new school day.

The mad rush, however, isn't over for others. Our dedicated athletes remain in school a few more hours to improve the skill of our teams. Some students have to wait on the corner bus stop and when the bus finally arrives, many of them don't even get seats. Many are on their way to work or home to do more school work. There are a few, nevertheless, who seek recreational enjoyment, like an exciting game of basketball in the alley. There's even one student whose stomach growls along with the bell. "I can't wait to get home to see what's in the refrigerator. (I ate the school's lunch today . . .)".

Poet Stirs The Cauldron Of The Mind

Roger Steffens, a well known international poet, has returned to the states for his first American tour in four years. One of his numerous stops on his trek across the continent was at John Marshall. His performance kept the audience of Marshallites entranced and enchanted for the short hour that he performed.

The joining of his deep love and knowledge of poetry with his dramatic abilities was always evident in the ease with which he set a mood and held the audience spellbound.

Steffens began working professionally as a broadcaster in 1961. Steffens is very well known as an editor. He is an editor of two best-selling volumes on poetry and he is the author of an important book on Vietnam.

Turkey Day Feast

Turkey with all the trimmings — that was the Thanksgiving menu planned for the Senior Foods classes here at Marshall. Ever since the course has been offered, the students have planned a dinner just before the holiday.

The first task of the student chefs was to plan the banquet. The meal consisted of turkey, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce and other assorted goodies. Although turkey was the most popular choice, a few classes chose duck as their main course. After planning their fare, the students went out to various supermarkets and purchased the foods they needed. Having prepared the feast, they enjoyed the fruits of their labors with a guest or two, often including Mr. Hackett.

Annual Ceremony Honors Scholars

Eighty students were elected in 1972 to the National Honor Society, and on December 8th took a pledge of loyalty to the Society's ideals at a formal induction ceremony held in the auditorium.

James Jurkowski, the 1972 presiding officer, gave the welcoming address to Society initiates, their parents, and a number of students and faculty. Additional speakers included Sharon Ausloos, the Society's historian, Judith Wybenga, who gave a speech on character, and Robert Van Eerden, who spoke on scholarship. A message on leadership was given by Karol Pollard and Paul Seiser concluded with thoughts on service.

Mrs. Marcia Roth and Miss Ruth Barkei were the faculty directors of the elections and organization this year. They also organized a reception for the members in the library. After dismissal from the auditorium, the students and their parents enjoyed punch, cake, and conversation.

Spirit of King "Overcomes" Marshall

"I have a dream . . ." This was one of the themes covered in a special auditorium program, held on January 15 in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. A stirring and beautiful rememberance was sponsored and presented by the Afro-American Club under the direction of Miss Gloria Bolden and Miss Elaine Steiger. This program has become a tradition at John Marshall over the years.

The participants gave a brief summary of Dr. King's accomplishments and ideas, then sang and performed dances symbolizing his goals. The songs included "Impossible Dream", "Take My Hand" and "Love and Peace". A tribute to Dr. King in the form of art work was also displayed in the glass case in the foyer.

Sing, Dance and Be Merry

The spirit of Christmas was carried out in its true tradition at Marshall with the annual Christmas program. Groups participating were Dance Ensemble, Girls' Glee Chorus and A Capella Choir. The program opened with the Girls' Chorus under the direction of Mr. Robert Beduhn. Selections consisted of "This Little Babe", "Deo Gracias", "I Heard The Bells" and a solo, "Still, Still, Still". The Dance Ensemble added a festive note with their holiday attire. Their five tableaus included a Nativity Scene, Christmas Shoppers, Sleigh Bells, Ice Skaters and a Spanish Christmas. The A Capella Choir completed the program with "Christmas Time", "Deck The Halls", a solo "Lullaby on Christmas Eve", and a duet "Thou Child Divine". Concluding the hour of celebration, the Vocal Ensemble displayed their talent in a selection titled "My Sheep Were Grazing."

Teachers Are People

Here are some of the things you always wanted to know about your teachers but were afraid to ask. Mr. William Wanserski loves to watch things grow and has an enormous garden filled with such tasties as tomatoes, cucumbers, raspberries, and of course, worms. Mrs. Sally Gunerman, an advisor of both Pep Club and Chrysalis magazine, loves skiing and spent two days of winter vacation on the slopes of Vermont. Mrs. Gunerman also took an enjoyable trip to Florida as a chaperone during Easter vacation, along with Mrs. Suzanne Kroupa and Mrs. Sharon Arbiture. Basketball coach Mr. Paul Sherry spends the summer months as a coach at the Milwaukee Bucks' training camp for boys and travels extensively with his family. Golf is the favorite game of Mrs. Bernice Sigman, who decided to become a teacher only after twenty years of marriage and the life of a housewife. Hi-Lo Diving, an equipment store and pool for divers, is owned by Mr. Marcel Lachenmann, who is a qualified scuba instructor.

As a final interesting fact, out of Marshall's 161 teachers, approximately 65 male teachers are married and only 21 are single. The census on female teachers shows 46 are married and 29 are single. But single or married, they're all human.

Lunch Hours Not Just for Eating

When the bells rang at 11:01 and 12:03 to indicate that lunch hour had finally arrived, several hundred growling stomachs were scattered in different directions. The main attraction was the cafeteria, where students gathered for a hot lunch or an ice cream sandwich. For the studious there was the library, where bookworms found refuge. The chatterboxes exercised their jaws in talking study halls. Music lovers rocked out to the sound emerging from the auditorium P.A. system. The earth children burst into the realm of the outdoors, where they meditated under cool shade trees, caught snowflakes on their tongues, or raced to McDonald's for that delicious, long-awaited Big Mac.

The Strike That Wasn't

Milwaukee Public School students went to sleep on the night of January 1st with visions of a extended Christmas vacation dancing in their heads. On this day the teachers union announced plans of their intended strike which was to take place on January 2nd. Students as well as teachers rejoiced at the prospect of a few more days of late sleeping. But on the morning of the proposed strike, students found themselves rudely awakened by the news that the teachers had settled at 7:10 A.M. All schools were open, and students and teachers were to report as soon as possible. Responding sluggishly, most of the teachers arrived by 8:30 with the majority of students dribbling in between 9:00 and 10:00.

Later on that week the secretaries went on strike. Nevertheless classes continued.

The Last Picture Show

The darkness of John Marshall's auditorium had disappeared along with the death of the noonday movies, and was replaced by auditory inspiration as today's recorded music began to fill the air. The day became an extra pleasure as Marshall's own Calypso Band performed on stage. This change came about when the Student Council voted to execute tradition by popular request, and as one student stated, "No one really watched those movies anyway. Besides, I can finally see when I study for my sixth hour tests!"

Marshall Welcomes New Principal

A new and important man was seen around the halls of John Marshall within this last semester. This man, Mr. Emil Rucktenwald, was already a familiar face to a few of the teachers, but he was warmly welcomed by all when he took over as acting principal for the remainder of the school year. Mr. Rucktenwald was the former principal of Riverside High School and is also a school administrative specialist. He was pleased by the fact that many of the activities performed at John Marshall were at such an excellent level, which helped to influence him in deciding to come here.

Mr. Eugene Hackett, our former principal, announced at the end of the first semester that he would be going on sick leave. In doing this, he was following the advice of his physician. Mr. Rucktenwald has since been doing an excellent job in helping to operate our school. One student summed things up by saying, "He's really a pleasant principal and I hope to see him here next year."

Problems Are Their Business

Although the vast majority of students at Marshall have never met our school social worker, Mr. Michael Chy, he is a very busy man. Out of 19 school days per month, Mr. Chy holds about 130 conferences in an effort to help people overcome their problems. The problems Mr. Chy works with are common ones: school attendance, health and educational problems and problems one may encounter at home. In a sense, Mr. Chy may be considered the liason person between the home, school, and various social agencies.

Guidance counselors frequently refer students with special problems to school psychologist Dr. Vernon Peterson, who is the psychologist for Marshall as well as other schools in the area.

A Home Away From Home

"By attending 65th Street School half days, junior high students were able to get a taste of Marshall, yet feel a sense of security in being able to get their feet on the ground at the grade school", stated Mr. John McGhee.

Marshall and 65th Street School were in direct contact with each other in a program set up for 7th and 8th graders. These students attended Marshall mornings and travelled to 65th Street School each afternoon. Mr. McGhee felt the general attitude of the young students was better at the grade school because the teachers there could devote more time to the individual students. Students felt more sure of themselves at 65th Street School because they were with other students their own age and didn't have to contend with the problems often resulting from the age difference between 7th graders and seniors.

Winter World Full of Life

Marshall students don't mold with the cold. This past year the students, as always, engaged in various winter activities. These included such things as tobogganing, ice skating, snowmobiling, ice hockey, building snowmen and of course (Who could forget) good old fashioned snowball fights. The Marshall Ski Club planned trips to Alpine Valley and Little Switzerland which enabled them to have fun and to develop their skiing skills at the same time. These winter diversions were looked upon primarily as a source of fun but also as a good form of exercise. For those sensitive to the weather attending and participating in basketball games, gymnastic meets and wrestling matches was the ideal sport. Bowling was another favorite pastime. For the truly lazy, there was always television.

Girls Combine Talent And Beauty

John Marshall not only proved its prowess in athletic and intellectual contests, but dominated other areas as well. In the world of beauty contests, three Marshall seniors placed among the top five finalists in Milwaukee's Junior Miss Pageant. The girls, Mary Annesley, Kathy Wituschek, and Gail Abendroth, were chosen first, second, and third runners-up respectively.

The pageant was open to all Milwaukee high school seniors, and ten girls were chosen from 52 applicants. Their preliminary tryout consisted of a four-minute talent presentation and a personal interview with three judges. After being selected, the ten semi-finalists spent three weeks preparing for the pageant itself. The final judging was based on the following: 35% judges' interview, 20% talent, 15% scholastic achievement, 15% poise and appearance, and 15% fitness and coordination. For the last two categories, the girls paraded in evening gowns and performed a soft-shoe dance to "Tea for Two". Mary played a classical oboe solo with piano accompaniment as her talent presentation. Kathy performed a combination dance and uneven bars routine to the tune of "Pink Panther", and Gail played a modern flute solo entitled "Poem".

Although the winner of the pageant was from Hamilton High School, she was unable to participate in the state pageant because she was a Canadian citizen. Mary, the first runner-up, was too busy to put in the time necessary for the pageant, so Kathy represented Milwaukee in the contest. She came away with honors, winning first prize in talent competition and placing third.

The girls all agreed that their experiences were interesting, exciting, and fun. One girl commented, "I'd gladly do it all again."

Time for Fashion

Calm certainly wasn't the word to describe the backstage area at John Marshall on February 16. Students were frantically preparing for the moment when they would step out onto the runway to model in the annual Spring Fashion Show.

The theme for the 1973 show was "Racing Against the Clock." Cathy Barak served as hostess assisted by Lynne Grall, Debi Volk, Barb Lescher, Jessie Schwade and Jackie Schwade. Mrs. Sharon Arbiture helped with the direction of the show and Gimbels teen board advisors served as commentators, as the clothing modeled was from Gimbels. Hank Stoddard, presenting the formal wear from Sherkow's, was an added highlight to the show.

Girls and boys who expressed an interest in participating in the show were chosen by tryout. After being selected, the students learned the basic techniques of modeling.

The fashion show's purpose was to provide good entertainment and to give students an insight into this year's styles and fashions. The various styles ranged from formal wear to pant suits and lounge wear.

Occupational Opportunities Illuminated

The Career Day program has been in full swing for the past five years under the painstaking efforts of Mr. Harry Brooks. Instead of devoting just one day to vocational insights as was done in many other schools, the organization at Marshall was arranged so that the programs were scattered throughout the course of the year. This gave students the added advantage of attending several functions.

A poll was taken in the beginning of the year to determine the areas of greatest interest. Representatives of these particular fields were invited to enlighten the minds of inquisitive students and to provide explanations for their questions. In some situations, tours and field trips to places of business were offered.

"The Career Day program was an excellent opportunity for all participants like myself in that it showed many different aspects of various occupations," commented Jim Cranston.

"Mustang Melodrama" Hits The Stage

Marshall thespians followed the current trend of nostalgia when the 1930's musical Girl Crazy was performed here on April 5, 6, and 7. Written by George and Ira Gershwin, the musical revived the style of light comedy and big production numbers. The musical's co-directors were Mr. Jack Frost, dramatics and Mr. Robert Beduhn, music. The choreography was directed by Linda Swanke.

Set in the western town of Custerville, the plot surrounded the love life of Johnny Churchill, ex-movie star (Kevin Benson) and Molly Moorhead, the Custerville postgirl (Meridee Sagadin). The plot thickened with the arrival of Frisco Kate, a nightclub singer and old friend of Johnny's (Linda Swanke) and her ex-husband and accompanist, Zoli Mostel (John Smolik). The romance of Johnny and Molly was nearly ruined when Kate and Sam Mason, Johnny's agene (Jim Cranston) plotted to get Johnny back to Hollywood. Their efforts proved fruitless because Johnny decided to stay in town and run for the office of Custerville sheriff, much to the dismay of the town bad guys, Doc Parker (Jerry Lerner) and Snake Eyes (Jim Hovorka). The musical ended (Of course) with happiness for all and justice for the dirty crooks.

Sets for the musical were designed and constructed by Marshall's Theater Arts class, under the supervision of Mr. Michael Moynihan. Costuming was handled by Mrs. Elizabeth Wandel and the Costume Committee, and the players were expertly transformed by the Make-Up Crew. Heading this capable crew were Miss Dorothy Smith and Mr. Richard Steele.

One of the musical highlights involved in the production was the barbershop quartet, composed of Paul Reamer, Paul Seiser, Karl Enockson and Gary Bargholz. The melodic tones of "Bidin' My Time", their theme song, were heard during scene changes and at the opening and finale of the show. The quartet also sang with Johnny in the song "The Lost Barbershop Chord". Other noteworthy musical numbers in Girl Crazy included: "Embraceable You", "I've Got Rhythm", "By Strauss", "Boy, What Love Has Done to Me", "Treat Me Rough", and "But Not For Me".

Architects Display Talents

Each year the Allied Construction Employer's Association holds a contest in the field of design for all high school students in Milwaukee County. This year the challenge was to develop a model for a Motel-Marina complex near the Bradford Beach-Summerfest area. Models were constructed at a scale of 1/20" equals one foot and were placed on a piece of filled ground 700 feet square.

Ten boys from Marshall were involved in the contest. They designed their models in Mr. Atwell's architectural drawing class and later built them outside of school. Many hours were spent on design and detail.

Three teachers from Marshall judged the models and picked the best three out of the ten. Richard Blommer, Mark Koeller, and Edward Sharpe constructed the winning models that were selected to go on to final judging. Ed and his Marina model placed seventh out of 160 that were involved in the contest and he received a cash prize of $25. The other two boys received honorable mention and a cash prize of $15. Had one of the three boys taken first place in the contest, they would have received a four year scholarship in architectural engineering at the Milwaukee School of Engineering. Second prize was a two year scholarship and third prize was $100 in cash.

Figures Abound At Marshall

Are you interested in joining a state championship track team?? I'm referring to Marshall's 1972-73 Math Track Team who succeeded in capturing city titles, individual awards by team members, and the 1973 State Championship winning out over a strong Nicolet team.

Two individual teams from Marshall were entered in the city meets: the "Primes" and "Composites", each team consisting of eight students.

Students were referred to Mr. Stuermer by their math teachers as prospects for the team. Math meets were conducted in the same manner as track meets with results being posted after each event.

Marshall students placed high in individual state competition.

Congratulations to Captain Dave Farrell and teammates on a great year!

Women's Lib once again struck Marshall on March 10 as girls escorted their dates to a "Knight of Romance" at the 1973 Turnabout dance.

The cafeteria was turned into a paradise of green and white streamers, dim lighting, and filled with the exciting sounds of "Normandy".

Mr. Provine had the honor of presenting Dan Ward and Sharon Skasa as "knight" and "maiden" of the evening as they led the couples in a dance.

THE 1973 PROM COURT KING AND QUEEN, Jim Sieloff and Cindy Miller.

In The Still Of The Night

Marshall's Prom was held on June 2, 1973, from 8:00 to 12:00 p.m. "In the Still of the Night" was the theme of this year's dance. The dance was held in the cafeteria, which was transformed into a ballroom under the expertise of the Decorations Committee headed by Kathy Nell. The music that created the mood was provided by Tony Vincent and his Band.

Leilani's was the location of Post Prom this year, which lasted from 12: 15 to 3:00 a.m. Contrasted by the mellow tones of Tony Vincent's Band was the "foot-stomping good-time music" of Truc. Truc, a very popular Milwaukee group, had appeared at Summerfest last year. The planning for this year's post prom was done by members of the Senior class, headed by Senior class vice-president Fred Eimermann.

The planning for Prom was done by the Dance Committee, headed by Kathy Nell and by Mr. Richard Steele, faculty advisor. Mr. Steele and Mrs. Mary Gruebel, math teacher, were in charge of the homeroom nominations and election of girls to Prom Court.

Prom was held later than usual this year in order to ensure fine weather for all the couples to enjoy. The thrill of the Prom ceremony was the coronation of the King and Queen. King Jim Sieloff and Queen Cindy Miller smiled proudly as Mr. Ructenwald crowned them to reign over the Prom festivities. The other members of court were: Linda Swanke and Jerry Lerner, Maria Ridao and Jim Oppermann, Sue Durch and Gary Scherbarth, Carla Pulley and Ross Luedke, Cindy Rapp and Fred Eimermann, and Chris Jahnke and John Elmergreen.

Different Strokes For Different Folks

EXTRA! EXTRA! READ ALL ABOUT IT! Marshall spectators were on hand for the presentation of the "Catalina Chronicle" which was held on May 17, 18, and 19. This year's water ballet show was comprised of fourteen wave-making numbers, based on the various sections of a daily newspaper.

The production opened with the early morning delivery of the newspaper and included such topics as headlines, weather, sports, comics, and horoscopes. Serving as commentators were Kathy Nell, 12, and Dan Krumrei, 11.

Those responsible for making sure the cast of twenty-nine girls and nine mermen met their deadline were officers Karen Johnson, Becky Jorgensen, and Cindy Rittman, and faculty advisor, Miss Sally McLevich.

"It too alot of time and a great deal of hard work, but it was great being part of the show," commented Catalina member, Debbie Barnes.

Students Granted New Freedom

Independence became one of the major cries of students at John Marshall this year. The pupils (and teachers) were tired of being penned in study halls against their will. The pleas of these freedom-seeking students were heard on December 5, 1972, when the Board of School Directors asked all senior high schools to consider optional study halls. The Sounding Board, a committee composed of parents, teachers, and students, was organized at Marshall to consider this matter. On March 6, 1973, the recommendations were presented to Mr. Rucktenwald and passed. The plan for open first and eighth hour study halls became effective March 29.

The objectives of this plan were to allow juniors and seniors who had passing grades to make choices in the use of their time outside of classes; to learn to plan the use of their time and to assume greater personal responsibility. The plan was set up to allow juniors and seniors having a study hall during the first or eighth period to have the option of being excused from these study halls. The only conditions imposed were that the student must have all passing class and conduct grades and parental permission. At the end of the year, the study hall reform plan was informally evaluated by many people concerned.

Fencers Stand Apart

The clash of steel against steel; precision controlled movements of wrist, arm, and body, signaled to surprised spectators in the cafeteria that the noble art of fencing had come to Marshall.

Directing the Marshall Musketeers was Mr. Alan Prasser, veteran swordsman and history teacher. He studied the sport here but was inspired by the swordsmen of Europe. "Fencing is the only sport in which you can reach out and touch a part of history," said Mr. Prasser.

Mr. Prasser insists on strict attention to the fundamentals of the art. "Fencing is a rigorous and demanding sport that combines rhythm, speed, endurance, and grace," he said.

Scuba Club Submerges to the Depth

Throughout the year, the scuba club, headed by Marcel Lachenmann, observed films, attended lectures, and met with other clubs. The three purposes of the scuba club were; to provide training in the use of equipment and safety procedures; to help them acquire equipment from different manufacturers at reasonable rates, and to help them to meet members from other clubs.

The M-club under the supervision of Mr. Fred Winter, advisor, met for the purpose of organizing the various athletic groups of John Marshall. Among their various activities throughout the school year were guarding the main doors and aiding guests during the school play and musical. This proved to be a valuable asset in maintaining order. To raise money in order to maintain their activities, they sold Marshall sweaters and a variety of candy bars to an appreciative Marshall student body.

Promoting school spirit is the basic objective of the Marshall Pep Club. The group started at the beginning of the school year, with the first football and cross-country events and a pep rally. Signs for athletic events, flashcards, bulletin boards and scrapbooks for coaches were constructed, halls decorated, and pompoms, T-shirs, and sweaters sold.

The majority of the approximately 100 members were underclassmen. The girls had a major part in Homecoming week and participated in the parade. Many hours were also spent in Winter and Spring Sports Weeks, athletic banquets, and activities at games and meets.

President Sue Edler worked together with Mrs. Carolyn Lawrence to plan fun and informative programs for this year's Spanish Club. The club had a Halloween party at which a scavenger hunt and pumpkin decorating contest were held. To celebrate Christmas, the club had a Spanish fiesta and an authentic Spanish dinner. So the students would truly experience some Spanish culture, they were required to prepare "la cena espanola" themselves. The students supplied their own ingredients and prepared the Spanish dishes in Marshall's home economics rooms.

The purpose of the Spanish Club was to promote interest in Spanish and Latin American cultures. It was opened to all Marshall's students interested in exploring and furthering their knowledge of "cultura espanola". Meetings were held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Sprechen Sie Deutsch? Even if you don't — Willkommen! Visitors were always welcome to view films and participate in what was being done in the German Club. The social season of the club was one marked with unusual activity. Germans were honored at the 29th Holiday Folk Fair. The annual spring "Deutsch Dinner" was carried out in its true German tradition. A big event for the club was a Christmas party with decorations, refreshments, and games. A bike hike, soccer game, and various bake sales were other activities held.

The club was a stepping-stone from the world of wonder to one of knowledge and understanding of German culture. The club's purpose was to further German interest and vitalize it for students through films, speakers, and other various means.

The German Club met twice a month under the direction of Mr. Rolf Altwein and Mrs. Evelyn Taus.

Just as the Roman Empire was famous for its Caesars, John Marshall's Latin Club was known everywhere for its Heath candy bars. The club held several candy sales of bars and boxes of the candy throughout the year as a money-raising project. The money that was raised was primarily used to support the ten Latin Club scholarships which the club has traditionally sponsored each year. These scholarships were awarded to graduating seniors who met the following qualifications: at least two years of Latin, active membership in the Latin Club, and a good scholastic average. The recipients of the scholarships were chosen by a committee composed of students.

The second use of Latin Club funds was the annual Latin Club banquet, an orgy-type feast to which only members clad in togas were admitted. The officers who presided over Latin Club affairs were: Mike Stein, President; Bruce Abramson, Vice-President; Laurel Kanitz, Secretary; Chris Jahnke, Treasurer; and Paul Berman, Sergeant-At-Arms.

The annual French Club Banquet was the event of the year for French Club. A buffet brunch was served to the members at the French restaurant L'Escargot, and included such French specialties as eggs benedict, ice cream topped with hot peaches, and of course, French bread. Some of the activities were a sleigh ride and Christmas caroling.

Presiding over the Club meetings were President Kathy David, Vice-President Connie Frost and Sec.-Treas. Elizabeth Baron. Miss Harmony Weissbach and Mr. Joseph Frenn were club advisors.

Persons with at least a B average in college preparatory mathematics were eligible to join the Math Club, directed by Mr. Alfred Stuermer. The club, one of the oldest at our school was formed to promote an active interest in the mathematics field. Films, guest speakers, booklets, and field trips were resource materials used in the math promotion club which was held the first and third Thursdays of each month at 7:30 A.M. The club also participates in outside activities, Mr. Stuermer announces, "This summer, Milwaukee is hosting the National Mu Alpha Theta Convention and our chapter will be actively involved."

Throughout the school year, the Girls' Bowling League at Marshall met once a week for fun, recreation, and improvement of bowling skills. Every Thursday after school, they patronized the Bowlero Bowling Alleys to bowl against other teams in their league. They charged a nominal fee of two dollars per person per night. At the end of the year, the club, under the supervision of Miss Carol Abraham, gave the girls awards for their bowling efforts.

If you are interested in business careers and learning about the careers of others, Future Business Leaders of America may be the club for you. In this club, students enrolled in business courses looked at the world of business via outside speakers.

The club officers included: Merrill Horvat, President; Cheryl Streets, Vice-President; Linda Anderson, Secretary; Marie Zanoni, Treasurer; Minnie Brown, Reporter; and Mrs. Emily Dohmann, advisor. The club heard guest speakers from local businesses and took field trips to various businesses in the area. Fund-raising projects included taffy apple, doughnut, and bake sales. FBLA was also actively involved in the March of Dimes drive.

Our Mouse Roars

"Although many of John Marshall's black students belong to clubs, they often feel like one out of many. The Afro-American Club gives them a chance to get together without feeling uncomfortable," said Miss Gloria Bolden, who headed the club.

The club consisted of 26 members with Larry Moore as President, Tijuana Peoples as Treasurer, and Sheri Cleghorn as Secretary. At each meeting, the participants explored black history through a unique game based on the principle of Monopoly.

This year, the club continued its yearly campaign for Operation Breadbasket. The project, called "A Penny a Day", was conducted in homerooms with promotion over the P.A. system. All of the money that was collected was used to purchase gifts for needy children.

If you've every seen a "baby catalina" you would know she's not just a swimsuit in water! The new members of Catalina Club were initiated at the beginning of the school year and were forced to wear crazy costumes and make-up. The old members gave orders to the new members and if they received any black marks on initiation day, the new members had to swim one lap of the pool for each black mark against them.

During the first semester the girls took a course in lifesaving, and during the second semester they learned numerous stunts, including the dolphin, marlin and ballet leg. The many skills practiced throughout the year were exhibited at this year's Water Ballet. "The Newspaper", this year's theme, displayed a great team effort and many individual talents. Miss Sally McLevich directed the club this year.

Girls Keep On Balance

The Girls' Advanced Gymnastics class was in full swing this year with girls tumbling, balancing, and vaulting. After the retirement of Miss Esther Heiden, the class of approximately thirty girls, came under the direction of Miss Judith Busser. Girls worked individually to improve their skills on the balance beam, the uneven parallel bars, in floor exercise, and in vaulting. Gaining self-assurance and poise were but two of the goals the girls worked toward.

From the many girls participating in the gymnastics class and GAA gymnastics, two teams were chosen to enter in various competitions with other schools — a Varsity team and a Junior Varsity team, both consisting of six-eight girls. These girls were judged and selected on their performances in all categories of gymnastics by Miss Busser.

The Dance Ensemble, an extension of the Modern Dance class, was originated in 1963 by Miss Esther Heiden. Since Miss Heiden's retirement, the class was under the direction of Miss Judith Busser. The Ensemble, consisting of thirty-two girls, worked and created together. A basic theme was presented by the instructor, and the group's goal was to use class effort to present their creations. The school can appreciate these girls' talents through school musicals, a traditional Christmas program, and the Performing Arts Night.

Students Sew Up Successful Future

Girls who were yearning to be a great seamstress and to create a gourmet meal joined the Junior Home Economics Club at Marshall to help themselves in these endeavors. The club and its supervisor, Mrs. Elizabeth Asher, met twice a month to work on their own special areas of interest and to help others.

The young girls learned the various aspects of good homemaking, including important sewing and cooking techniques, which should be beneficial to the girls in future years. The girls also engaged in various activities and projects devoted to the elderly and needy children during the course of the past year.

Although the Junior Home Economics Club taught the girls many essential aspects of being a good home-maker, it also taught them how to be thoughtful citizens and people.

A greater variety of interests and talents caused last year's Knitting Club to be renamed the Creative Stitchery Club. The club's objective was to teach girls different types of needlecrafts. Club activities expanded to include other fields of needlecraft such as sewing.

Making stuffed animals was an example of one of the club projects. The money collected for dues went for the stuffing for the animals, and upon completion they were sent as Christmas gifts to an orphanage. Individual projects included everything from sweaters to dresses. Although the members worked on projects on their own the group of about 18 members assembled every Thursday in Room 130 after school. Club officers Sue Gullickson, President; and Sue Gabres, Secretary-Treasurer were aided by the club advisor Mrs. Mary Mehring.

How Sweet It Is!

Many students remember munching on those delicious DECA candy bars, but few knew much about the club they were supporting when they did so. Marshall's Distributive Education Club of America was a program designed for seniors interested in getting a head start in the business career of their choice. Students received credit and gained valuable experience from on-the-job training. They attended school half a day to work the other half.

Under the direction of Mr. Dennis Valenti, the students in DECA became involved in many activities this year. They sponsored a candy sale to establish their budget, went on several field trips, and had members attend the city and state competitions.

The money raised by DECA was used for an employee-employer banquet and for representing Marshall in the city and state competitions.

A club designed to benefit medically interested students proved to be very helpful this year. Many girls motivated by nursing joined Future Nurses of America, under the direction of Mrs. Lois Jors.

The club had many interesting activities this year, including several fund-raising projects and listening to prominent speakers who told the girls of the many fascinating fields available in medicine. Mr. Harry Brooks, Marshall's vocational guidance counselor, supplied the club with various films and tapes.

President of FNA, Debbie Bell, considered the stimulation a great gain to the members, because it brought them closer to the idea of helping others. The other officers this year were Janice Brazell, Vice-President; Cindy Glickstein, Secretary; and Cheryl Knueppel, Treasurer.

They'd Rather Fight Than Switch

A torrent of words, a persuasive gesture, a stressed point — these are the distinctions of the John Marshall Debate Team in action. This year's squad, under the direction of Mrs. Suzanne Kroupa, battled over the topic, "Resolved: Governmental financial support for all public education in the United States should be provided by the federal government."

The debaters spent two or three nights a week examining information about the resolution and staging mock debates. From here they formed two cases; affirmative and negative. Presentation and facts were the two major qualities weighed by the judges in determining the winning team. After this year the squad will have to make a transition to cross-examine the debate and the debaters will be allowed to question each other during the rebuttal time.

The members of the affirmative side were Gary Achterberg, Joe Lepgold, Dave Schiewitz, and Richard Shauzin. Those representing the negative side were Jim Ayraud, Mike Stein, and Joe Hero.

The Milwaukee Repertory, Marquette, and UWM theaters served as classrooms for this year's Drama Club, under the experienced direction of Mr. Ralph Bielenberg. The Drama Club pursued a traditional program of events with meetings conducted by President Kathy Nell and theater parties to local dramatic productions.

The main purpose of the club, in the words of Mr. Bielenberg, was "to encourage original work by the members." Building on this traditional foundation, the would-be dramatists wrote and directed their own skits and plays, and performed them at their bi-monthly meetings. Members were then able to receive constructive criticism and advice from their fellow students.

Other officers of this year's club were: Vice-President, Edith Lepgold and Secretary, Meridee Sagadin.

Royal Members Move To Castle At Knight

The game of chess is a game of skill and logic. After school every Tuesday and Thursday, a large group of devoted Marshall students met to prove or improve their skills at playing that extremely challenging game. Because of their great interest in the game of chess, the members of the club not only met to compete amongst themselves, but they also participated in numerous city-wide tournaments and met with several other teams from a variety of schools around Milwaukee.

The Chess Club was forty-five members strong and was coached by Mr. John Kelly, a teacher in Marshall's Language Arts department. Each member watched the moves of other members in the club to practice what they knew, study what could be done, and learn how to make moves to help themselves gain an advantage over their opponents.

Rome! Paris! London! Have you ever wanted to go to these places? Well, so did 28 special students at Marshall. They were special because they did something about it. They joined the World Travel Club.

The club, which met once a month, was under the direction of Mr. Manfred Woch. The members saw various slides and films, held discussions, and were visited by outside speakers. Through these media, they tried to gain a better understanding of foreign countries. At the end of each month they chose the country that they wanted to discuss at their next meeting and set their schedule for that meeting. Examples of the places they investigated were Greece and Switzerland. One of the main events of the year for the club was attending the Holiday Folk Fair, held at the Milwaukee Auditorium.

Earning While Learning

The Office Education Program offered at Marshall is one that is very profitable to the 24 members now enrolled. Students taking part in O. E. receive credit and pay while preparing for their vocation. They attend classes half days and work in office positions the other half.

Members of Office Education also have a club. The club members have various sales throughout the year to finance the recognition dinner and dance held for their employers. Mr. Steele is an advisor of the club and O. E. Program.

Office Education prepares girls for a future vocation in a field that demands well-trained help. The girls are taught invaluable skills that will give them the highest of qualifications for a future office job. O. E. gives a head start to girls who wish to learn a vocation and earn money at the same time.

Needed student participation was the philosophy of the Promotion and Publicity Club, organized last year at Marshall. The club's purpose was not only to get Marshall students involved in school activities, but to interest the local community in them also.

Activities such as school dances, art fairs, and athletic events were promoted here at Marshall through the varied news media available. This included P.A. announcements, posters, and The Gavel newspaper. Other media within the community used were local stores, banks, and radio spots. These helped involve local citizens.

Where did the Promotion and Publicity ideas come from? The club's members, along with Mr. Arthur Kazmierczak, advisor, Bob Schmitt, Chairman, and Valerie Thresher, Secretary conducted informal rap sessions where suggestions were made and plans formulated.

Students Make Clean Sweep

"The purpose of Earth Action was to concern people and turn their heads around to today's ecological problems," said Miss Linda Muldoon, Earth Action's advisor. "We were trying to convince people to become non-consumers and to shy away from population growth. If we accomplished these aims we will have taken a giant step towards our major goals as an organization."

Recycling paper in the school and having various paper drives were some of the smaller projects of Earth Action this year. Other more significant projects were: teaching elementary students about their environment by presenting educational programs to them, persuading the school board to use recycleable paper in their mass mailings, encouraging the schools to use natural foods in cooking classes, and getting stores to produce more non-packaged foods.

From the rings of Saturn to the Aurora Borealis, the Astronomy Club at Marshall watched the sky.

The Astronomy Club met after school on various days to discuss numerous topics of interest to astronomers, ranging from the Apollo 17 moon flight to meteor showers. One of the main activities of the club was the "Sky Watch." The club's president, Jay Weitzen, explained, "One club member watched the sky for a period of time a night for anything interesting, such as a meteor shower or comet." The notes from the Sky Watch were recorded, and major sitings were reported to an agency in Washington.

The members of the group, with the assistance of Mr. John Bruggink, the advisor, practiced their knowledge of astronomy, improved their skills at it, and learned much from the experience they gained as part of so accomplished a group.

One of the most active among the organizations at Marshall was the student council. This group was made up of one representative from every homeroom in school as delegates, one person chosen to represent each grade from seven to twelve as the executive board, and finally, five elected officers.

Under the exceptional supervision of Mr. Albert Villasenor and Mr. Donald Barczak, the student council accomplished many things, ranging from have music instead of a movie in the auditorium at lunch time for all the students at Marshall to a UNICEF drive to raise money for children all over the world.

"Where is . . ." was a familiar question uttered by many a parent, visitor and seventh grader entering Marshall for the first time, and a Marshallette was always there to answer it. Marshallettes greet, seat, and direct visitors at such school functions as plays, concerts, conference days and open houses.

To become a Marshallette, each girl needed a minimum grade point average of 3.0, had to be in grade nine through twelve, and have three teacher recommendations. After participating in a clinic at which she learned about the building and history of Marshall, she gave a tour to a member of the executive board, and on this basis she was selected.

This year's executive board consisted of seniors Cheryl Pfister and Terry Orlick, and juniors Jessie Schwade, Jackie Schwade, and Katie Liedtke. Miss Joan Bruggink served as faculty advisor.

Some of the students seen roaming around John Marshall's halls were none other than our own audio-visual department monitors. The jobs which the AVA handled were various. They ranged from delivering equipment to showing daily noon-hour movies. The crew also operated a production center where transparencies were made. These students, under the expert direction of Mr. Samuel Bloom, maintained a B average or better, and were expected to have a courteous and co-operative attitude in order to be part of this crew. AVA offered junior, as well as senior, high school students a chance to be a part of this organization. The junior high students were taught the fundamentals of operating and servicing audio-visual equipment, while the senior crew members were considered experts. Mr. Bloom adds, "I am very thankful for the caliber of students that I have working with me in the AVA department."

Behind Every Successful Actor . . .

When the curtain went up on plays, musicals, and auditorium programs at Marshall, the Stage Crew, headed by Mr. Frank Orlando, was behind the scenes working out all the problems and necessities. These boys had a large part in making a performance a fine example of Marshall's quality.

During the musical, they carried all the spotlights to the top of the auditorium catwalk. These lights were very heavy, and, sometimes during the performances, the lights heated up the small rooms they spotted from, making this important function more difficult. Another problem during the performance was the fact that these boys worked in almost total darkness as well as total silence.

The Stage Crew put in many hours of hard work in all imaginable situations. They were just considered as much a part of each production as the performers.

"Yea, Boo, Hurrah!" What could these words mean? They were just a few of the many expressions which were heard during the noonday movies. A group of about 53 boys and girls took turns showing the movies each day. The films which were chosen were required to have a Legion of Decency mark and were limited to 105 minutes in length. Selling movie tickets, weekly or daily, was also a part of the movie monitors' lunchtime activities.

Working in accordance with the audio-visual department, the movie monitors gained knowledge of different types of projectors, and made a nice place for students to go during their lunch hours.

Towards the end of the first semester, by ruling of the Student Council, the noon movies were ended, but the movie monitors continued their work by piping music into the auditorium for a talk study hall.

Monitors "Run" Office

Writing tardy slips, delivering call slips, and stuffing mailboxes were just some of the many duties performed by Marshall's office monitors this year. In addition to these activities, monitors checked students in and out of classes, answered the switchboard and acted as receptionists for visitors to the school. A cheerful smile and a helpful, efficient manner can be very important in making a first impression on a newcomer to Marshall, and the office monitors were always on hand to do just that.

The girls, under the supervision of Miss Carmela Zanoni, saved the secretaries and vice-principals miles of legwork by locating students and running various errands.

In order to work in the office, girls had to be selected by Miss Zanoni with the approval of the vice-principals. Girls worked during their study halls and before and after school.

"I wouldn't work for a guidance counselor," stated one John Marshall student. "No way. Too much work." Fortunately, some Marshallites had a different outlook.

Our efficient staff of guidance monitors sacrificed a much-needed free period to see that the work of our school went along smoothly. Serving only during periods in which the guidance counselors were free to hold conferences, they assisted in the little jobs that were so very important to the counselors. The only qualifications necessary were a good scholastic average and a desire to serve the school. Service points received for their help were credited towards their scholastic awards.

"Our guidance monitors were indispensable. I would probably be ten pounds lighter if I had done all that running around myself," commented a grateful guidance counselor.

Work Amidst Stacks Of Knowledge

As Marshall students began another school year they were greeted and aided by library monitors both new and old. Each of the 45 monitors was assigned a section of books to be in charge of. Besides being a liaison between librarians Mrs. Doris Rea and Mrs. Jane Boorse and the students, they aided pupils in the use of books, microfilm equipment, periodicals, and other library materials. Everything from information for a report to facts about careers and colleges can be found in the library.

The monitors also covered books, prepared material for use and ran numerous errands. They were completely in charge of the attendance for students who used the library during study halls. These girls who gave up study halls and time before and after school were depended on by the librarians and the entire student body.

Experience was one of the many rewards which the bookstore monitors received through their work. Their many duties included selling books and supplies, counting money, selling tickets and catering to the many needs of students and faculty. Monitors strove for accuracy and thoroughness.

Before and after the school year the bookstore opened its annex which is located in room 145. This method of buying and selling books was adopted for the convenience of both students and the bookstore management. This procedure was efficient and allowed students to buy their books in a faster and easier manner.

Directing the bookstore monitors was Mr. Daniel Thekan. He taught correct procedures for carrying out duties of the bookstore.

Girls Keep On Punching

"My monitors this year really kept on punching," joked Mrs. Bernice Raasch, the data processing secretary when asked about the efficiency of her monitors this year. Ten monitors assisted her in the IBM room with a variety of tasks. They did everything from punching and distributing the many difference types of IBM cards to assisting in the preparation and distribution of progress reports. These girls also did many other smaller duties which included preparing lunch identification cards, homeroom attendance cards, and running numerous errands.

With their hard, devoted work, Marshall's IBM monitors this year were an asset to the school. The girls were also great helps to Mrs. Raasch.

Behind all the stomach aches, the cut fingers, and the sore throats stood the clinic monitors, ready to lend a helping hand to the school's nurse, Mrs. Melchoir. Any girl who maintained a B average or better and who expressed a sincere desire to work were eligible for a clinic monitor position. After meeting these requirements and upon approval of their guidance counselor, the girls put forth their valuable time and talents during their free periods.

In addition to directing ailing students to the nurse's office, pulling file cards, and running various errands, this year's group of ten girls had the unique opportunity of being able to exercise their creative abilities. The clever health tips on the clinic walls that greet the patients could be credited to their imaginations.

Stitchers Make Scene

This year, John Marshall's Costume Crew labored extremely hard for the play and musical. As in the past, they helped to make the two productions quite successful and quite attractive.

For the first time in her three years in the home economics department at Marshall, Mrs. Elizabeth Wandel directed the five, all-girl members of the group. She aided them in the choice of costumes for each actor in the show. That entailed the study of the particular character, the scenery, and the mood of each section of the play and musical. When that task was finished, the girls skillfully experimented and attempted designing and fitting the costumes around what they thought would balance with every aspect of the scene. The Costume Crew worked closely in conjunction with the Make-up and Stages Crews for both shows.

"It's a great way to get involved and be helpful!" This was the way that one enthusiastic Drivers' Education monitor felt about his job this year.

The monitors offered their valuable services to the teachers in the Drivers' Education department at Marshall by performing several tasks. These jobs included helping students on the driving range, correcting and recording test scores, and running special errrands for the driving teachers. Many also typed up papers and helped run simulator movies.

Under the experienced supervision of Mr. James Fallon, the Drivers' Education monitors successfully completed another year of meritous service. Mr. Fallon and the other Drivers' Education teachers hoped that the new student drivers, with the aid of their monitors, would be cautious, safe drivers.

Along with the Costume Crew and Stage Crew, the Make-up Crew had a great deal to do with the play and musical this year. Under the guidance of Miss Dorothy Smith and Mr. Richard Steele, the crew worked hard experimenting and discovering what colors, expressions, and characteristics each color needed to accent every scene to the highest degree.

The Make-up Crew had to work closely with the girls in the Costume Crew, so all the colors and styles of costumes and make-up would correspond. They seemed to have done that very well.

The school dances which were so carefully planned and decorated were planned by the Dance Committee. Under the direction of Mr. Richard Steele, members first decided if there was enough interest to hold dances in addition to Homecoming and Prom. Various bands were considered and then heard in order to determine if they could provide music that would appeal to all who attended the dance. Theme was discussed at meetings to provide harmony between theme and decorations. All decorations were planned by the committee, and, with the help of volunteers, they tranformed the cafeteria atmosphere into one slightly more romantic.

Honesty, responsibility, and eagerness to learn — these were the qualifications required of students wishing to join the Steno Pool. Mr. Jerry Grillo, who heads the pool, recruited students last spring into this group. Anyone who had taken at least one semester of typing was eligible. The job of the Steno Pool was to run off tests, study sheets, and programs. They also learned how to work various types of office machines. Members of Steno benefited by receiving service points and valuable training for future secretarial jobs.

Opportunity and leadership were what the 7th and 8th graders hoped to achieve by participating in Red Cross. The club, headed by Mrs. Shirley Glisch and Miss Barbara Walker, had a representative and alternate from each homeroom.

Trying to get more people involved, the club did many new things this year. Some were the making of posters for various causes and the gathering food at Thanksgiving for needy people. A highlight of the year was the making of a scrapbook showing "the typical American high school" which they sent overseas to a foreign high school participating in Red Cross.

Although some teachers considered an additional student or two an extra burden, many of Marshall's biology, chemistry, physics, and general science teachers were well aided by this year's science monitors. These students did a number of tasks to make the teacher's job slightly easier. Some of the jobs included collecting and recording papers, typing up tests, setting up experiments and equipment, and caring for some of the animals used for experimentation.

The language lab monitors had different jobs and activities which helped the foreign language teachers. These jobs entailed the setting up, running, and rewinding of tapes, the running of film strips, and the filing of various other items.

Mr. Emil Heid, who has been in charge of the lab since 1964, sponsored the monitors again this year. A teacher of Spanish and German, and the head of the foreign language department, Mr. Heid had the thankless job of choosing a few eager monitors.

During the past year, Marshall's language lab monitors were important aids to foreign language students and teachers.

Small Groups Make Big

A great asset to the school and especially Marshall's sports department, were this year's athletic monitors. Working under the supervision of Mr. Fredrick Winter, the Athletic Director at Marshall, the girls who were athletic monitors typed and filed hundreds of registration, medical, and eligibility forms of the athletes, and were in charge of the athletic bulletin boards and trophy cases.

The undoubtably valuable and commendable services performed by the athletic monitors played an important part in how successful the athletic teams were this year.

The locker monitors at Marshall gave much greatly needed assistance to numerous troubled students.

Under the experienced supervision of Mr. John Bruggink, a physics teacher in Marshall's science department, the locker monitors helped to fix many broken lockers. They also changed and assigned locker positions to students who wanted new lockers for a variety of reasons.

The six monitors gave up their study halls to aid their fellow students, and they were always ready when someone was in need of help.

The little known men behind our athletic teams are the team room monitors. From football helmets to track shoes the team room monitors take care of all athletic equipment problems.

The monitors started to get ready for the athletic seasons before school opened, taking inventory and moving in new uniforms. The major jobs of the monitors were to keep track of all the equipment issued and collect the equipment at the end of the season. Most equipment came in roughly used so it had to be cleaned.

The equipment that is provided for and taken care of by the team room monitors ensured our school athletes of excellent wear.

New and original ideas — that was the goal attempted by this year's Gavel Annual staff. Every day eighth hour, while the editors were busy making layouts and assigning stories to staff members, the rest of the staff could usually be seen roaming the halls in search of an interesting story to report on or to get an interview with someone involved with school activities. Other activities of the staff included such jobs as making up original headlines and captions for all the various types of stories and pictures included in the book, pasting pictures on the numerous pages and also handing out the many senior picture appointments. Although this job is very time consuming, it was all very worth-while, and it was also a challenge to try to put out the most enjoyable yearbook ever produced by the staff since the beginning of our school.

The editors and staff for this year, as in the past several years, were guided by Mr. Thomas Marx.

The Gavel newspaper staff was working hard to win another first place in the Columbia Press Association honors as they have in the past four years.

The staff, under the direction of advisor Mr. John Towle and editor-in-chief Diane Slomowitz, picked various topics that would be of concern to students and used these topics as themes for each newspaper. Some of the topics were "Election 72", Dating, the Dress Code, and Religion.

Creativity and originality were repeatedly demonstrated in each issue of the Gavel. Columns of current interest such as "Save the Earth" a column on ecology and the "Rambling Poltergist" the column that takes the reader on a thrilling, adventure-packed trip through the "wilds of Milwaukee" centering attention on a specific attraction each issue, were just two of the many interesting columns found in the newspaper.

Chrysalis Emerges

John Marshall had many talented students in the areas of creative writing and poetry. Last year, a group was founded to gather, edit, and publish the works of these students. The name chosen for this literary accomplishment was "Chrysalis". The publication was put together by Marshall students under the guidance of Miss Linda Muldoon. This magazine gave our students a chance to express themselves as well as to see what others can do. After last year's trial run, a regular staff was chosen from those who had contributed and had shown a desire to work on Chrysalis. Nine students were selected to run the publication this year. In doing so, they gave up their eighth hour study halls.

Kevin Benson, a contributor to Chrysalis, commented, "The Chrysalis is a medium through which the students can express their emotions and opinions in creative writing."

"When can I pay the balance?" This question was often asked of this year's business staff. Under the direction of Mr. Frederick Winter the business staff played an important part in the subscription drives of the Gavel yearbook and newspaper, the collection of money and acquiring of ads for the newspaper.

Each year two freshman girls were added to the staff. They were picked mainly on the basis of recommendations by teachers and scholastic averages. When placed on the staff they were able to serve all four years.

The senior business manager was picked by Mr. Winter on the merits of her work in the previous years. This year's manager, Carol Wessel, handled the newspaper ad layouts and was assisted by the others in billing and other correspondence. Besides working one period everyday they spent many hours before school.

The Senior Band marched on this year under the direction of Mr. Craig Kirchoff. Marching band drilled for three halftime shows and three pregame shows. These fine performances came from hours of work in the cold of the early morning on Marshall's practice field; many Marshall students arrived at school hearing strains of the overture from "Tommy" on the breeze.

The best musicians in the school made up the Senior Band. With the arrival of Mr. Kirchoff this year the band worked on all varieties of music. "I felt an important goal was to develop an appreciation for all types of music, contemporary, popular, classical and jazz", said Mr. Kirchoff. The band reflected this in their concerts and with a certain esprit de corps. All members of Senior Band were quite justly proud to be a part of it.

After two years of practicing in basements after school, Jazz Ensemble was finally offered as a credited course at John Marshall this year. Previously, disorganization was the major stumbling block in the way of the Ensemble's success.

Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Kalfas, played several noon hour concerts and was well received. Concerts were also given at Wilbur Wright and Samuel Morse Junior High Schools. The Jazz Ensemble provided music and entertainment at the annual Marshall Fashion Show and at the Spring Concert.

Gerry Jung, bass player for the Ensemble, stated, "Jazz Ensemble is an outlet for the musicians to expand on a different dimension of music than what is offered by Senior Band, Orchestra, or A Capella Choir." With music ranging from jazz-rock and blues to some orginal compositions, Jazz Ensemble is destined to become a fine addition to Marshall's music department.

John Marshall's Intermediate Band engaged in many school activities this year including an appearance in the annual Spring Concert and an exchange concert with the Juneau High School Band. Many of the members of the band were music monitors. These monitors performed on the football field during the marching season, but did not play in the Senior Band. Each year some of the more skillful members of the Intermediate Band audition in hopes of obtaining a position in the Senior Band, as the band was designed to prepare its members for Senior Band or Senior Orchestra.

Intermediate Band practiced diligently each day eighth hour under the direction of Mr. Craig Kirchoff, a former graduate of John Marshall and a member of the Senior Band while here. Intermediate Band was composed of students in grades 9 through 12.

73 of John Marshall's seventh and eighth graders spent their third or fourth period this year in an earnest effort to improve their musical talents on various instruments.

Mr. Craig Kirchoff, Marshall's new band director, conducted the potential musicians and was credited with the achievements they made. Junior Band is the first step on the ladder leading to membership in the Senior Band, the position of highest honor given to a participant in Marshall's high school band program. Students generally spend seventh and eighth grade in the Junior Band, and in ninth grade progress to the Intermediate Band. Junior Band is a beginning for the inexperienced player to give him the experience and confidence needed to advance to a more accomplished group. The eighth graders worked toward presenting small concerts at local grade schools.

Many students at John Marshall this past year were forced to give up a good hour of sleep during first period because of the diligent practice of the Senior Orchestra. Every morning strains of music ranging from symphonies to rhumbas rang through the auditorium and surrounding halls in preparation for the various annual concerts. do, consisted of 45 string players. In addition, there were 25 members of the woodwind, brass and percussion sections from the band. These students performed at the Winter Concert in early February and later at the Spring Concert. In addition to concert performances some of the musicians participated in the pit orchestra for Marshall's musical production, "Girl Crazy".

The Intermediate Orchestra served as a stepping stone from the grade school orchestra to the senior orchestra in high school. This past year, Mr. Frank Orlando helped to develop the musical skill of the thirty members. The orchestra, composed mainly of students in the eighth and ninth grades, met daily to practice. The requirements to be a member of the group were few: one must take weekly music lessons and have had at least one year of such lessons. Although most of the young musicians had only one year of instruction, some had become more advanced with two or more years of study. In addition to providing training for the young students of John Marshall, The Intermediate Orchestra served as a testing field for student teachers from UWM and other local colleges.

The A Capella Choir made its first appearance of the year, consisting of several artistically rendered and impressive numbers, in the annual Christmas program. This was presented the last day of school before the winter recess. A cheery note was added to the holiday season when the choir passed through the Marshall corriders singing carols to students in their classrooms. Also in keeping with the holiday spirit, the choir entertained shoppers at Northridge. Besides singing at some of the programs put on by the school, the vocalists had outside engagements. The one which gave them the most satisfaction was the annual singing of Christmas carols at St. Joseph's Hospital. Choir alumni also took part in this performance. Directing the A Capella Choir was Mr. Robert Beduhn.

The Girls' Glee Club, a group of young music lovers who found "glee" in singing was made up of girls who were carefully chosen from beginning chorus classes. Each day during third hour, the members studied vocal music. They learned to read notes at sight, breathe properly, place tones correctly, overcome faults scientifically, and become proficient in the fine points of singing. Emphasis was placed upon the development of soloists as each of the girls had a chance to sing a solo before the class. During the Christmas season, the girls not only took part in the school's annual Christmas program, but also spread Christmas cheer when caroling through the halls. The efforts of the girls and their director, Mr. Robert Beduhn, have made the Girls' Glee Club a fine organization.

The Mixed Chorus at Marshall is basically composed of tenth grade boys and girls who display musical talent and show a willingness to participate in the music class. Mr. Beduhn is the instructor of Marshall's Mixed Chorus and other singing groups at Marshall. Being the head of the music department, he has the task of teaching his students some basic musical knowledge. Every day the students work together learning new songs and harmony skills. These will be presented in concerts and auditorium programs during the school year. Mr. Beduhn's efforts throughout the year go towards preparing his students for the second step in the music curriculum, the Girls' Glee Club. The girls then work another year in the hopes of being accepted into Marshall's A Capella Choir, the highest level that can be attained in vocal groups at Marshall. At this point, the students usually have achieved the utmost in their high school singing careers.

"We have accomplished much, despite the fact that this was an experimental course. Besides singing for our own pleasure, we learned many of the various techniques that make for good singing", said Steve Rossine, a member of the Swing Chorus.

Swing Chorus, a new course offered to members of the A Capella Choir, met under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Kalfas to sing popular songs for enjoyment. The group consisted of 19 of the best voices in the choir. Meeting 4th hour on B days, they practiced such songs as "Day By Day" and "Bless the Beasts and the Children". They performed at Wilbur Wright Junior High School on January 31 with solos sung by John Smolik and Kathy Biksadski.

"Although our director, Mr. Kalfas, was not accustomed to teaching vocal courses, I feel he did an outstanding job in directing and accompanying us", Steve remarked. Because the course was highly successful this year, it will be offered again next year.

Batmen 'Glove' Fine Season

Starting off slowly, winning only two of their first eight games, this past year's Eagle batsmen came on strong to win first place in the Consolation division of the city conference. Their final record was respectable; 11 wins and 9 losses.

Mr. Kurt Rollman, in his first season as head coach, was faced with the difficult task of rebuilding, as many of the better players of the previous year had graduated. The team rounded off well however, by finishing fourth in the city in batting with a .257 team average, and had the fewest number of strikeouts with 91. Team batting honors went to Kerry Beck, who had a remarkable .353 average, eighth best in the league.

Commenting on the season, Coach Rollman stated, "I really had a fine group of boys out this year playing each game as if it were their last. Despite the fact that it was my first year as coach, I can already see where improvement is needed, and hopefully we will be successful in future years.

Beck Earns All-City Honors

One player who had an exceptionally fine season this past year was junior Kerry Beck. So fine, as a matter of fact, that he selected to be on the Milwaukee Journal 1972 All-City baseball team as an outfielder. Kerry was the only player to represent Marshall on this team.

Kerry's golden glove helped win many games for the team, but his specialty was hitting. His hot bat pounded out 24 hits in 20 games. While some players slumped, Kerry stayed alive throughout the season and was a constant threat to opposing teams.

As Kerry will be returning next season, Coach Kurt Rollman will have one less player to worry about.

New Coach; Old Ways

In their first season under Coach Robert Verbick, Marshall's trackmen repeated as City Outdoor Champions for the 1972 season. The cindermen also placed second in the City Indoor Meet and fourth in the City Relays, and compiled a 3-3 dual meet record.

"Overall strength was the key to our wins," according to Coach Verbick. Although the team produced only two individual champs in the City Outdoor Meet; Ed Roessl in the high jump, and Rick Zaborske in the two-mile run, the rest of the boys rounded out well, thus adding to the winning team total.

Ken Greenberg in the 440-yard dash, Rick Zaborske in the two-mile run, and Tim Jenness in the pole vault event qualified for the State Meet held in Madison, after winning in the regionals and sectionals. Ken placed the highest in the meet with a fifth place after qualifying with a time of 49.7 seconds, the second best time in the state.

"I was very pleased with the season, especially with the city championship," said Coach Verbick. "There is nothing more encouraging to a coach than to start with this kind of team." A large number of lettermen will be returning next year, and the coach expressed hope of a better if not winning performance in the State Meet in future years.

Swingers Sink A Third Place

Marshall's golf team finished 1972 with a winning season carding an 11-3 record. The team, paced by its only returning letterman Stuart Blacher, placed sixth in the City Golf Tourney; third in the city team standings.

The Varsity, coached by Mr. John Bruggink, was hampered by poor weather conditions throughout most of the brief season, but managed to maintain a team average in the 80's.

High hopes exist for the 1973 season despite the loss of Blacher, because Coach Bruggink will tee off with three experienced linksmen. They are Bruce Krajcir, Tom Sakar, and Bob Brzezinski.

Even champion golfer Stuart Blacher makes a bad shot once in a while.

Stuart Blacher, Marshall's only three year letterman in golf, ended his brilliant career on the links with honors. He was selected by the city's high school golf coaches to be on the first city conference all-star golf team.

Stuart was Marshall's number one golfer chalking up an 11-3 record in dual meet competition. In over-all play he was the team's low shooter, and he ranked sixth among city high school golfers.

Racketmen Make 'Net' Gains

Coached by Mr. Eric Oliver, Marshall's Tennis Team smashed and served their way to a 39-31 overall record, placing seventh in the City conference. The team was very inexperienced with only one returning letterman, but Coach Oliver still had many talented players to work with.

This past year's team was led by the outstanding play of Robert Van Eerden and Daniel Friedman in the singles event. The third member of the singles team was sophomore Perry Rosen, whom Coach Oliver is counting on in future matches. The first doubles team, with a 10-5 record, was composed of junior Paul Reamer and senior Al Rossman. Senior Larry Nelson and junior Tom Mayer made up the second doubles team and had a great overall record also. Utility man Paul Seiser filled in wherever needed and was a great addition to the team.

Captain Dan Friedman did an outstanding job of holding this young squad together. Next year the racketmen, with five returning lettermen, will be a certain threat in the City Conference.

Spirits Soar As Eagles Fly

"Defense was our best game this past football season," commented Coach Ray Hendrickson. This was prompted by the fact that Marshall's defense allowed only 26 points in eight games and placed fourth in the City conference.

The defense was generally well ahead of the offense all year. This was due to the fact that the offense changed from its normal style and ran a wishbone "T" type offense. Though the Eagles had an excellent offensive line, the backfield was relatively inexperienced and did not start to move until the last games of the season. In these final games the scoring punch was provided mainly by quarterback Jim Sieloff and running back Ross Luedke. While Sieloff's bread and butter play was the quarterback "sneak", Luedke specialized in the long gains around end. The balance of the team's feared running attack was supplied by senior fullback Pete Boncher and senior halfback Joe Zettl.

As Ross Luedke holds, kicker Cliff Henes boots another extra point.

Eagle Gridders Place 7 On Team

Revealing the strength of this past year's team, seven players from Marshall were chosen for the 1972 Northside All-City Football Team. John Koleas, Jerry Stewart, Marvin Turner, and Pete Boncher headed the all-city defensive team. Koleas, Stewart, and Boncher led Marshall's team in defensive, and Marvin Turner consistently made game-saving plays at his cornerback position to earn all-city honors.

Bill Gardiner, Kevin Rock, and Ed Roessl were named to the offensive team. Gardiner and Rock, part of Marshall's offensive line, consistently punched holes in the oppositions' defenses, allowing many long gainers for Marshall runners. Ed Roessl, tight end, came up with many spectacular plays, thus earning for himself a spot on the team also.

In a summation of the season John Koleas stated, "the reason our team did well this season was because individuals worked together for the team. Along with this teamwork, Coaches Hendrickson, Hytinen, and Gunderson provided the drive."

A Winner Leaves The Gridiron

Coach Ray Hendrickson wound up a coaching career of twenty years this year as he announced his retirement. Coach Hendrickson stated that the little details and headaches of coaching were getting to be too much for him. "The coaching during practices and at games are the enjoyable parts of coaching," commented Hendrickson.

Coach Hendrickson began coaching in Milwaukee as an assistant coach at South Division for one year and then took the head coaching job at Rufus King. In that year King produced a City Conference championship under his tutelage, with a 7-1 record. Hendrickson's overall coaching record was a respectable 46 wins, 28 losses, and four ties.

CROSS COUNTRY

Harriers Hurry To Victories

The 1972 Marshall harriors opened this past year's competition with a first place finish in the Sun-Prairie Invitational, which set the tempo for the rest of the year. First place finishes were also taken in the Northside Championship Meet, the City Championship Meet, and the State Sectional Meet.

Captain Rick Zaborske led the striders in all of their meets, by taking seven first places. According to Coach Potochnik, Zaborske is the best runner ever to come out of Marshall. In the City Championship Meet, Rick placed first for the second consecutive year in leading the team to the city championship. The team's biggest victory, however, came in the State Sectional Meet. For the first time in Marshall's young history, the striders took first place in this meet with an individual from Marshall also taking first place.

Commenting on the season, Coach Potochnik stated, "I feel we had a real fine year. The quality of cross-country in Wisconsin has really improved in the last decade, and I feel that the Marshall program has improved equally."

Upon receiving these last honors as a coach, Mr. Leo Potochnik retired from coaching after a rewarding 25 years in this field.

Team Sets High Goals

Soccer, one of the fastest growing sports in the United States today, is growing exceedingly fast in the City Conference and among Marshallites especially.

In November of 1970, there were seven teams from the conference in the first soccer City Invitational Meet. In just two years, this number has doubled to 14 teams and four divisions. Marshall is in the North division of the league. This past year, the Blue Eagles, who had the youngest team in the league played with such precision as if they have been playing together for many years.

Marshall's team this past year was led by the outstanding play of junior Menyhert Fogel, sophomore Erich Kammerman, and freshman George Koph.

Every Monday night last fall, the girls' volleyball team met with other schools in the Municipal Recreation League, for competition. The Varsity team, made up of nine girls with Sue Kalenic as captain, and the B-Team, consisting of ten girls with Vickie Harder as captain, were led under the direction of Miss Joyce Dunning. Outstanding players returning from the previous year's team were Sandy Busalacchi and Sue Kalenic.

Coach Dunning commented on the team's efforts by saying, "this year's team was fantastic with much potential skill. If we can just get it all together, we will have continuing successful seasons.

Gals Soc It Too

If a person happened to pass through Lincoln Park last fall on a Tuesday or Friday evening, he may have seen 26 very determined girls hard at work. These girls composed Marshall's 1972 girls soccer team.

The team was established last spring and during the summer league the girls worked up to a second place. Finally last fall, they received their biggest reward; first place, with a 7-0-1 record. Their total number of goals far surpassed that of the second place team.

Each member contributed to the championship, but this past year's outstanding players were; at forward: Jan Kleiber and Rosemary Wadel, at full back: Judy Jankowski, Holly Roge, and Anne Siebers, at halfback: Jill Decker, Darlene Tryba, and Lynn Woppert, at goalie: Holly Roge, and Laurie Schuh.

The team is coached by Mr. Ray Mantsch, who has put a lot of work into helping the girls. He thinks the girls have accomplished much with their efforts and says," I don't think enough importance is placed on girls sports here. The girls put in as much effort as the boys. They're giving recognition to Marshall, Marshall should give more recognition back to them. I don't mean this just for girls soccer but for all girls sports. The girls are as much a part of the school as the boys."

Beginning last August, Marshall's girls' tennis team practiced and competed against other area high schools during the first year of organized tennis for girls at Marshall. The team smashed its way through an exciting season and compiled a 3-1 record. Meets and practices were held at Custer High School. The four meets took place during September with Miss Sally McLevich coaching the team and Wendy Decker as captain. Other members of the team included Terri Chipman, Mary Annesley, and Jean Fournier — all scoring points for the team in singles. Doubles points were scored by Jean Jelacic, Sue Kalenic, Cindy Loften, and Mary Jo Nemic.

Matmen 'Pin' Down Regionals

"The 1972-73 wrestling season can be looked upon as being both successful and disappointing," according to head coach Robert Foti. The team fared pretty well however by compiling a 7-3-1 record, good for a fifth place in city duel meet competition, and placed fourth in the city tournament.

Captained by senior Chuck Cording, the team accomplished much by taking second place in the Menasha Invitational, and third at New Berlin. Altogether ten boys from Marshall placed in the Menasha meet. Leading the way at New Berlin were Tom Prus, Tim Hansen, and Bob Peplinski, all of whom placed second.

The highlight of the season came when Marshall put together a great team effort to win the state regionals. Next year, there will be seven returning lettermen and many boys from the first place sophomore team, trying to better this year's record.

Chambers Leads Team; Goes To State

The 1972-73 wrestling team was a well-rounded squad, which had a strong backbone. Some of the outstanding grapplers were Chuck Cording, 138 pounds, Rich Lipinski, 195 pounds, Tim Hansen, 167 pounds, Ben Chambers, 112 pounds, and Glen Steinbrecher, 105 pounds.

Senior Chuck Cording was the team captain and was voted the "most outstanding wrestling." After working on varsity for three years, Chuck captured first place in his weight division at the City Meet, second place in the regionals, and third place in the Menasha Invitational. Coach Foti described Cording as "the best wrestler we ever had at Marshall, dedicated, hardworking, and a fine gentleman both on and off the mat."

A two year varsity wrestler, Richard Lipinski fought his way to a first place in the state regionals. Richard also placed first in the Menasha Invitational, and compiled a 16-5-0 varsity record.

Veteran wrestler Tim Hansen readily managed to grab a first place in the city, second place in the Menasha Invitational, second place in the New Berlin Invitational, and compiled a 15-4-2 varsity record.

105 pound wrestler Glen Steinbrecher kept up the winning tradition also by placing first at Menasha, second in the regional meet, third at New Berlin, and third in the city meet. Glen's over-all record was 21-5-0.

A boy who has the potential of being a great matman at Marshall in future years, according to Coach Foti, is sophomore Ben Chambers. Among Ben's accomplishments this year were; taking first place in the sectionals, second in the regionals, and was the only Marshall wrestler to go to the state meet in Madison Wisconsin. Chambers complimented a dynamic season by grabbing firsts at Menasha, Racine, West Bend, and taking fourth at New Berlin.

Gymnast Tumble To Fine Year

Posting a three win and three loss conference record, and a six win and three loss total record, Marshall gymnasts tumbled their way to a third place in the city dual meet standings finishing behind Bay View and Madison each of whom had one loss. The team also finished sixth in the state meet.

"The boys did a fine job this year on all aspects of gymnastics, I am especially proud of Greg (Kalkoff) and Ron (Vogel) who really did an excellent job," stated Coach John Schissler.

Other outstanding gymnasts were Mike Wichman on parallel bars, Jim Glisch on high bar, and Rick Adams on still rings.

Six returning lettermen will try to fill in for the seven graduating seniors, and hopefully will have a successful 73-74 season.

Five Gymnasts Take Sixth — State

With an excellent effort this past year, Marshall sent five gymnasts to the state meet held at Waukesha High School. Senior co-captain Greg Kalkoff who had an excellent year, successfully defended his floor exercise city championship by again placing first in the city meet at Hamilton. Greg qualified for the state meet by placing fourth in the sectional meet. Facing tough competition at the state meet, Greg came through by taking second place and gaining valuable points for the team.

Other outstanding Marshall gymnasts were captain Ron Vogel who took fifth place in state in floor exercise and the all-around event, Rick Adams, who made an unmatchable effort to place second in state on still rings, and city champion on the parallel bars, Mike Wichman, who placed second in the sectionals, but dropped to seventh place in the state meet. The only other Marshallite to go to state was senior Jeff Schoen, who placed eighth on the side horse.

Van Eerden, Meiller Highlight Season

"I was totally satisfied with the team effort but not with the season in general," stated Coach David Polacheck concerning the 1972-73 Eagle Swim Team. "The boys did their best but did not attain all of their set goals, one of them being a second place in the city meet." The team took a disappointing fourth after riding in second throughout most of the meet. Despite this however, there were some excellent performances turned in by Marshall swimmers. Dave Meiller, a junior, took two individual first places by winning the 200 yard individual medley and the 100 yard butterfly. Senior Bob Van Eerden, who was voted the team's most valuable senior, also highlighted the meet by taking second place in the diving event. Stated Coach Polacheck, "Meiller and Van Eerden were very consistent and could always be counted on for team points." Team captain Paul Seiser, a valuable addition to the team since his sophomore year, placed third and fourth in the 100 yard and 50 yard freestyle respectively. Speaking about Paul, Polacheck remarked, "it always hurts the team to lose a great swimmer, but it hurts more to lose a great leader and individual who makes my job a lot easier."

The season highlight was the qualification of Bob Van Eerden to the state meet in Madison Wisconsin. Bob did this by taking a third place in diving in the state sectional meet. "This would have to be one of my best and most satisfying performances of my career," remarked Van Eerden. "I was really psyched up for this meet and was glad I could go to state." Bob was the first swimmer from Marshall to qualify for the meet since 1969.

Next year, nine returning lettermen will be part of a team that hopes to do better in city and state competition.

BASKETBALL

Regional Champs Just Miss; Roessl Honored

Advancing the furthest in school history toward state championship competition, this year's basketball squad finished a very satisfying season with a 14-9 record.

At the beginning of the season it looked as if Marshall might have a chance at the city championship as they compiled a 6-1 conference record. With losses to Madison and Custer however, the team's only hope was to make it through the regional and sectional competition. As things turned out, Marshall finished fifth in the city standings and had the unpleasant task of playing King for the first game of the regional playoff. Fortunately for the Eagles, King did not have the blistering shooting percentage that they had three weeks earlier when they walloped Marshall at King. The Eagles then played probably their most important game of the season against Madison at Marshall. Marshall won 59-54. In the last regional game, Marshall easily handled North 82-72 to advance to the sectionals. All Marshall had to do then was win two sectional games in order to advance to state playoffs.

After a slow start, Marshall came back to win over a strong Hartford team 61-52. Then came West Milwaukee in the final showdown. Marshall certainly did not look impressive as they trailed 35-14 at half. But then came a miracle ... almost. Dave Alt came off the bench in the second half and scored 26 points and all of a sudden Marshall trailed by a single point 68-67 with 18 seconds left and possession of the ball. With four seconds left, junior Pat Sinks shot from about 22 feet. The ball caromed high off the backboard and Marshall's season ended.

This season, Marshall did not have the size or quickness that some of the teams had. The key was consistency. As far as individual play went, senior Ed Roessl was the main scoring punch as he finished second in scoring in the city. Captain Jim Oppermann contributed in scoring but he was mainly the play-maker and assist specialist. Center Scott Thomas was the rebounder and had some key tip-ins throughout the season. He was equally as intimidating on defense as blocked many shots per game. Junior Bob Gressen, who Coach Sherry says will definitely be instrumental in success next year, came on strong in scoring very late in the season and was also an excellent rebounder. Senior Dave Alt and junior Pat Sinks alternated at the second guard spot. Sinks started the last few games of the season because of his ball handling skill and height, but Alt came in during tight spots and had some key steals and baskets.

Among the many highlights this season was the naming of senior Ed Roessl to the all-city team, selected by the city teams. Ed, a constant threat on offense with his long-range shooting, was equally as aggressive on defense, and was the only Marshall player to make the all-city team.

Female Tumblers Take State

Introduced in 1967, the girls' advanced physical education class gives girls interested in the gymnastics field a chance to prove their talent. The gym team, which competed interscholastically, was picked from this class which was composed of approximately 35 girls from various grade levels. The girls met every Tuesday and Thursday hour seven, and worked Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays after school with Miss Busser, the advisor. Tryouts for the class were held in May. Team tryouts were held in December.

The girls who participated in this program were divided into various groups in which they performed; balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting, and free exercise.

The gymnasts were involved in city-wide gymnastic meets and clinics. They participated in half-time programs at some of the home basketball games, and appeared as part of Marshall's Performing Arts Night at school.

The most exicting highlight of the season however, was winning the state girls gymnastic meet. This topped off a fine season for the female swingers.

MERMAIDS FLOAT TO 1ST IN CITY

Girls, if your favorite sport is swimming, Marshall's girl swim team may be what you're looking for. From September through November of 1972, these girls practiced and competed in swim meets against city and suburban schools, losing only to the suburban teams.

This year's team was highly successful as they placed first in the city. In the meet, captain Cindy Rittman placed first in the 100 yard breaststroke, Karen Johnson in the 400 yard freestyle, and the 400 yard freestyle relay was won by Diane Gregory, Sue Schierman, Karen Tanel, and Laurie Onasch. Chris Van Eerden placed second in diving and Jean Stapleton placed fourth.

The team, managed by sophomore Carol Bachman, was led by five seniors and six juniors. Most of the team will be returning next season. Needed will be more distance swimmers, according to Coach Sabbath. Overall, next year looks as if it will be another promising year for the city champions.

Cagers Bounce To 1st In City

Finishing with an 8-0 record, the 1972 girl cagers placed first in the city conference for the first time in Marshall history.

The team was led by captain Sandy Warren who did an outstanding job of keeping the squad together both on and off the floor. Scoring and rebounding were the specialties of junior Judy Luellwitz who led the team in both departments. Other valuable additions to the team were junior Vicki Harder, senior Denise Stevens, and senior Sue Kalenic, who was voted the team's most outstanding senior.

Practices were held after school during the week, and games were played on Monday nights.

Squad Lifts Spirit

Displaying the spirit of competition, the 15 cheerleaders consisting of eight varsity, six junior varsity, and a mascot, rallied cries at all Marshall football and basketball games as well as other functions throughtout the school year. They encouraged participation in school affairs and boosted school spirit by the use of pep rallies and by the sale of many items such as pins, ribbons, and candy.

Mrs. Sharon Arbiture, the squad's advisor, aided the girls during many long hours of practice and effort.

Varsity captains of the cheerleading squad were Ann Dougherty, for football, and Jeanne LaVesser, for basketball. This years junior varsity captain was Mary Dougherty.

A Step In Time

An appreciative audience was always on hand to see the well-trained performers of the Marshall Drill Team. The girls performed for many events such as the Homecoming parade, half-time ceremonies at football games, basketball games, and others.

Much hard work went into the intricate patterns and marches of the team. Morning practices were supervised by advisor Miss Joyce Dunning, along with officers Sharon Ausloos, Sandi Warner, Fran Spano, Laurie Osowski, and Judy Frank.

Since a great number of girls wish to join, tryouts are made more difficult every year. They consist of various drill steps including the swing and the freeze, left and right flanks and commands from the captain.

Good Sports For Sports

Boys and girls who engaged in intramural activities this year were treated to a variety of sports. For girls, who met on Tuesdays and Thursdays after school, activities included swimming, gymnastics, softball, football, and basketball. There was always more than enough expert supervision as coaches Miss Joyce Dunning, Mrs. Sally McLevich, Miss Sandra Sabbath, and Miss Judith Busser gave pointers where needed.

Under the direction of Mr. Wayne Pierce, Mr. Peter Schulteis, and Mr. Dar Stover, boys also participated in athletics after school and on Saturday mornings. Among the various activities they enjoyed were basketball, gymnastics, football, baseball, swimming, track, and weightlifting. The purpose of intramurals is to give the junior high pupils a chance to play competitively as they are not old enough to go out for sports.

Dear Diary,

Well, I'm in seventh grade now. This was my first day at John Marshall. I guess I am grown up now. Brother, is this school big! It even has three floors (I went up and down those stupid stairs all day) I kept running from class to class. I have seven different teachers. At lunch I got in a line and gave the woman a dollar and she said I was in the wrong line because I didn't have the correct change I'm glad she didn't yell at me! after lunch I got to see a movie. It was called The Fly. Ehhh! I like having a locker and I share it with Edith but she's shorter than me so I have to take the top and I can't reach any of my books and I have ~~ten~~ seven books! They are so heavy! I had to buy an assignment notebook because our health teacher makes us copy down our homework.

Well, I can't write any more cause I've got to do my homework so I get straight A's. Besides my hand hurts from writing so much because I had to fill out so many forms today - pink, yellow, green, blue - I wonder what they're for?

Bye

P.S. Whats an A day??

Dear Diary,

Well, it's really all over with. It's funny, but I almost wish it wasn't. Everyone's been joking about how we're "free" now, and I guess we are. There wasn't much time to think about it because it's been so hectic, but, in the back of my mind, I knew that now I would have a lot more responsibility. At least I know what I want to do... so many don't have any real plans.

I wonder if many of us will see each other again. A lot of people just had school in common.

It really hit me at the ceremony; for 12 years school has more or less been the center of my life. It was like a security blanket... you always knew there was school in the morning and that kind of influenced everything.

Looking back, it seems that some of my classes were irrelevant. On the other hand, I've had some really stimulating and exciting ones with teachers who had a great effect on me.

I don't feel that I'm quite ready emotionally for the new world I'll be entering. I can't help feeling a little sad that all of it is past, and my life will be much different now.

... You know, I wouldn't have missed it for the world!

Principal Hackett Speaks His Peace

Mr. Eugene Hackett has applied his many years of experience with students to the developement of our school. He realizes that school plays a vital part in the life and developement of a student and he does his best to create a comfortable atmosphere and a well rounded curriculum to suit the student's needs. He believes in giving students as much responsibility as possible and every opportunity for them to prove that that they can carry out these responsibilities.

With the help of students and faculty, Mr. Hackett has given Marshall new courses to give students a variety of subjects in which to choose from. He hopes to satisfy the students' request for new subjects and hopes to encourage them to remain interested in their studies. He also believes that extra curricular activities keep students interested in school.

This year, one of the most opposing issues Mr. Hackett was confronted with was open study halls. He showed great concern and gave careful thought to the problems which were involved. He wanted students to have freedom but not more than they can handle. He believes there are some students who would be able to handle open study halls but there are also some who would take advantage of their privilege. He has consulted students, parents, faculty, and the community, and he would like to hold further meetings with various groups until a decision is made. Some of the problems involved are which grade levels are to be given this privilege, increasing vandalism and the problem of discipline.

As principal, Mr. Hackett is the educational leader of the school. He is known as the man in the middle and he has many responsibilities which people take for granted. He is losing his father image because most of his power is being taken away from him, for today's Marshall students are becoming more independent and require less rules and regulations. Even though his power is decreasing, we still expect him to carry the burden of decision making and increasing responsibility.

Three Men Cope with Marshall's Problems

"My job as assistant principal is like being the lubricant in a set of gears — seeing that the educational system continues to function properly at Marshall," stated Mr. Wayne Elliott.

Before coming to Marshall he had previous experience at Wilbur Wright and Juneau, and worked at the Administration Building.

Mr. Elliott has learned that to achieve responsibility you must accept it as quickly as it comes. He deals with over 1,000 discipline problems each year on an honor basis rather than a detention situation so that the student is able to gain pride in himself through responsibility.

He feels, "You must work daily to achieve goals".

Originally from Peckham Junior High School, this was Mr. Provine's first full year at John Marshall. Mr. Provine believes that Marshall is a fine school, and he has enjoyed working with the students. He believes in giving the students a chance to state their opinions. He does not want the students to think of administrators as trouble-shooters but as people trying to guide them.

He was asked how he liked advising in a ninety-nine percent white school and his comment was, "It's not any different from advising a ninety-nine percent black school". Mr. Provine hopes to see the students' attitudes change for the better toward the school.

Mr. Jankowski was another new administrator at Marshall this past year. He came from Pulaski High School and he was in charge of the Senior High. Mr. Jankowski believes in student accountability and he is impressed by the student body. He highly admires the student activity. He also commented that the demerit system worked better than the old detention room. Because of the size of Marshall, the North Central Association thought it would be a good idea to have another administrator, so they added Mr. Jankowski, our new administrator and assistant principal. Mr. Jankowski made the new change at the beginning of the year about programmed study halls.

Changes Benefit Students

Various changes in administration, guidance staff, curriculum, and teaching staff affected students at Marshall this past year. Such changes included new teachers as well as student teachers.

One of the new courses added this year was the history course, American Problems, taught by Miss Paula Mrvosh. This course dealt with problems such as racism, ecology, life style, foreign relations, and the welfare system. Other courses added were, 19th Century Europe, taught by Mr. Paul Larscheid, and Afro-American History, taught by Mr. Kenneth Kamau. Mr. Allen Prasser, Head of the Social Studies Department, stated that "Students should be given a chance to voice their opinions concerning various matters."

The Science Department was fortunate enough to have six new student teachers under the direction of department chairman, Mr. Ralph Shepard. One new course offered by the department was an Astronomy class, taught by Mr. John Bruggink. The Science Department has succeeded in making courses interesting for all students involved.

One of the most popular courses again this year was the Home Economics Department's Co-ed Senior Foods course. This department was headed by Mrs. Velma Mahood. Various activities which took place were Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners.

The Foreign Language Department under the direction of Mr. Emil Heid offered various teaching techniques this year. Independent study was one of the techniques used. John Marshall's second Language Lab was again put into effective use. The department also received many monthly and weekly magazines and newspapers in each of the respected languages. Marshall has the largest enrollment of foreign language students in the city of Milwaukee.

The Math Department under the guidance of Mr. Alfred Stuermer added no new courses this year but had a sizable enrollment. The Math Students' activities included such events as participations in the Math Club and various contests around the city. Mr. Stuermer had five student teachers also working for the department.

The new English Department Chairman was Mr. Ralph Bielenberg. He has taken over Mrs. Iva Johnson's position. Among Mr. Bielenberg's activities as Department Chairman, he is also involved in school plays.

Again this year sophomores were allowed to take electives instead of the ordinary English courses.

New equipment was used in the Business Education Department this year. The Data Processing Van was one of the machines used. This gave the students a valuable experience at operating various office machinery. The Department chairman, Mr. William Wing, takes great pride in all the students accomplishments.

The Physical Education Department headed by Mr. Darwin Stover was of great value to Marshall students. The students learned skills in various sports activities taught by the gym instructors. John Marshall has one of the best physical education departments in the Public School System.

Spring and Winter concerts were two of the highlights of this year's Music Department headed by Mr. Robert Beduhn. Students involved in Band and Chorus took part in these concerts. Replacing Mr. Yindra as Band Director was Mr. Craig Kirchoff, a former Marshall student.

The Industrial Arts Department headed by Mr. Truman Atwell offered many courses and skills to students interested in working with electronics and any other types of tools or machines. The Electronics Laboratory developed two summers ago in room 128 was again a great help in developing projects and skills of the students involved.

Included in the Art Department headed by Miss Dorothy Smith were student workshops. Students could work on individual projects independently during study halls or spare time. This gave them a chance to finish work which was not completed. Miss Smith hopes to see more workshops developed in the future. Every year Marshall participates in contests around Milwaukee and in Marshall's own art fair.

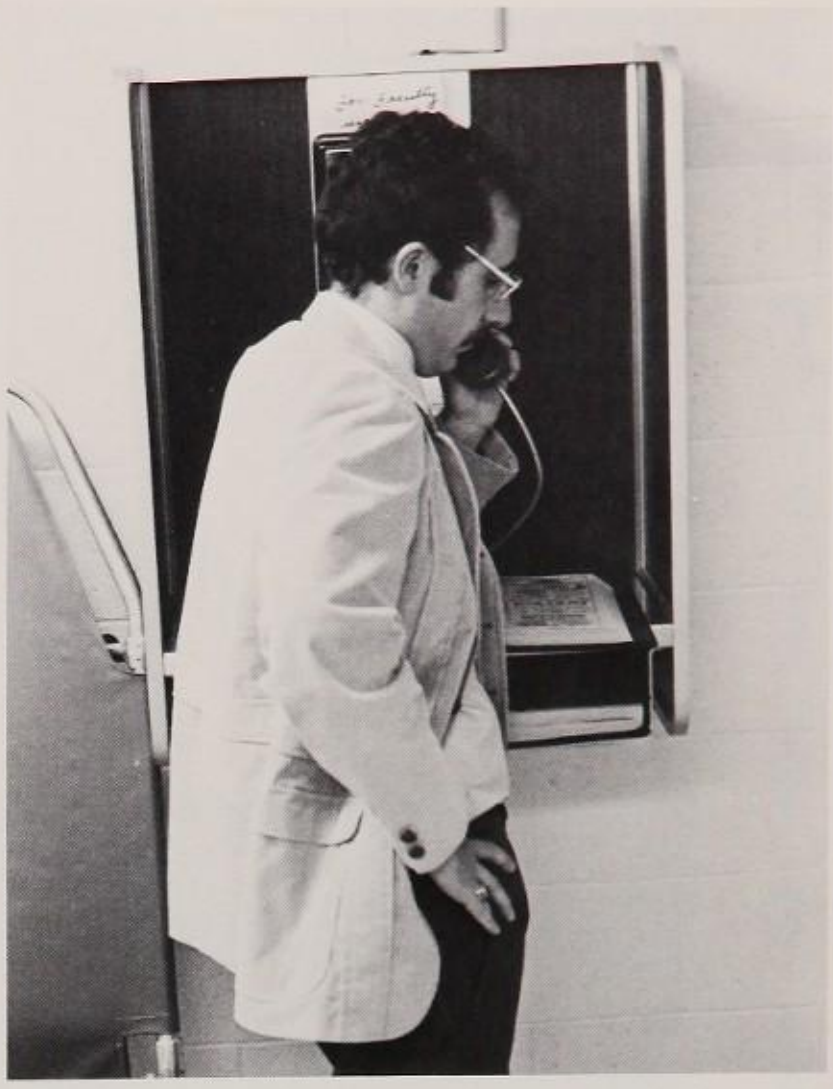
Teachers Are People Too!!

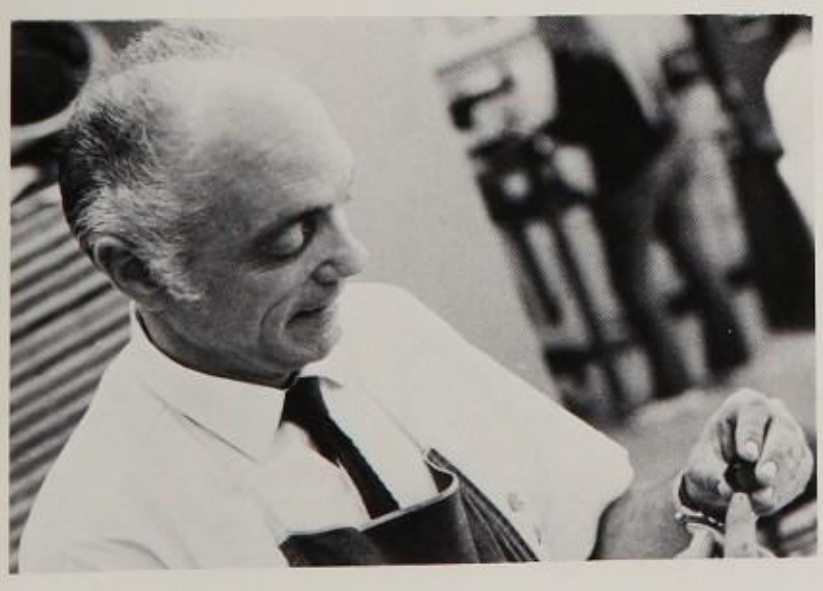
To be good is noble, but to teach others how to be good is nobler-and less trouble.

Mark Twain

To teach is to learn twice.

Joseph Joubert





You must always let yourself think about everything. And you must think about everything as it is, not as it is talked about.

George Bernard Shaw

The pages of this book have been dedicated to the people, places, events, the serious moments, and the not-so serious moments, the victories, and the defeats — all the things that make our school what it is. We hope you enjoyed your look at John Marshall . . . In Perspective.

Kathy,
you were definately a leader at Marshall who will be remembered. your outgoing personality and determination have always impressed me. Good luck in all you do as you encounter the "cruel world." I know that in whatever field you chose, you'll be a winner!
love,
Mary Benson

Sincere Congratulations To The 1973 Senior Class

It has been a pleasure to have served the John Marshall Junior-Senior High School in the production of the Nineteen Hundred Seventy-three Gavel.

Kathy,

Well I've been writing things & you since graduation and I am signing for the last time. How sad & a way of today and tomorrow should overcome sadness that might come remembering the past. The years have been long and full yet so short and empty. Now the last of them together. Here's to your good one. I'm just positive it will be!

Patti

My that we should ... you

To My favorite locker partner,
Have a great life & happiness always. Best Wishes,

Kathy,
It's been a great three years that we had a few math class. Be sure to write. Great knowing you. Best of luck after graduation. Hope I see you once & awhile. Good luck with your future. You deserve the best.
Have a great summer.
Love,
Dorothy Kelley

Katrina,

School is almost over, I only have a minute to write, so I'll make it short. Have fun, be happy, and don't ever hurt anyone.

Love + Peace

Kathy-
It's been some really great times - camping and
German's wonderful
(English) class! I'm really glad that I got to know you -
you're a great friend!
Hope to see you this summer - even though
I can't go camping!
I wish you and Lonnie the best of luck and happiness! Good luck in your future and may you always have sheep
in your sleep!

Kathy Nell

To Kathy,

It was really nice knowing your while I'm Well I'm sure everybody will miss your in A.V. and I know
I will miss tickling you.

Love,

Dear Kathy,

Well we finally made
it through school
Best of luck to you in the future. You were a good friend and classmate.

Kathy,

It was a strange
4 years. and Beaman's
class was a fitting end to it. Whatever, have a great post-high school life and watch out for

Kathy, You've been a great camping companion & even though we have had our differences, I've enjoyed arranging trips for Tents. Forget it, you're the only known hole above the ground. Oh well Kathy! The [illegible] has finally come [illegible]

Kathy,
It's been fun hiding all your stuff (lunch, books, shoes, coats, etc.) all year in A.V.A. 5th hour. Have fun this summer + good luck in college.

Jeff Shapiro

Kathy, I'm really glad you made it to Europe this summer. I'll miss you a lot next year. Take care & write. Love, Susie

Kathy, It was great meeting you this year. Have a nice trip home this summer. Take care & write. Love, Susie

Kathy,
Have fun this summer & good luck in college.

Dave

Man, you really came in handy in the comic section section
Kathy, and as a math Y Bart, during the whole year. can you imagine our math class mid one any girls? Italy if as an tho, I hope you're a smashing success at college.

Jen

Kathy,
you added a touch of glamor to our math class. Have fun in calculus in college.

Kathy
It's been fun
in A.V.A. the past two years. I hope you have a great summer and good luck in future

Kathy,
It has been great
having you in your math class this year.

Kathy,
You livened up everyones day in math class by just being there and being you.
